

Axonify Communications

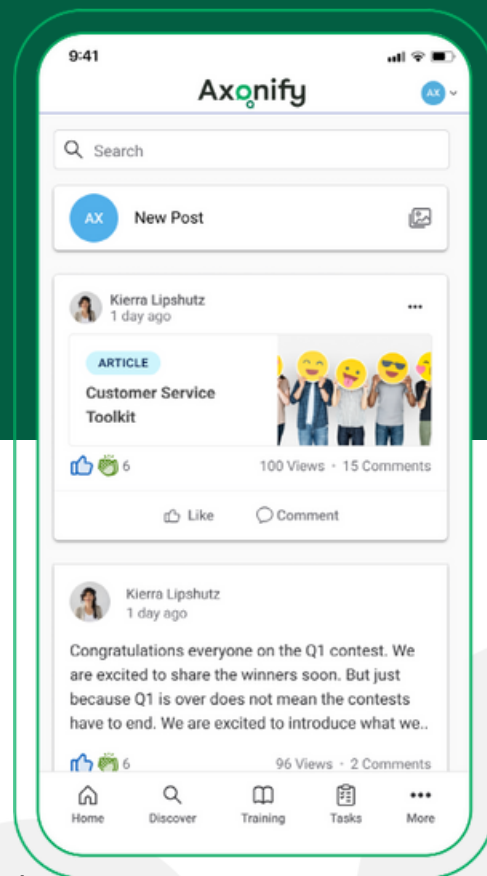

Give your teams reliable, accessible and responsive communication that connects them to HQ, no matter the size of your organization, with two-way communications and feedback they'll want to use.

Fractured communication on the frontline

While 65% of corporate frontline leaders think their organization's communication is effective, only 39% of frontline workers agree. What's behind this disconnect?

Relying on top-down communication might make sense at the corporate level, but for these large frontline workforces, it results in a lack of tracking, consistency and standardization—and no way to know whether information has been received, understood or applied.

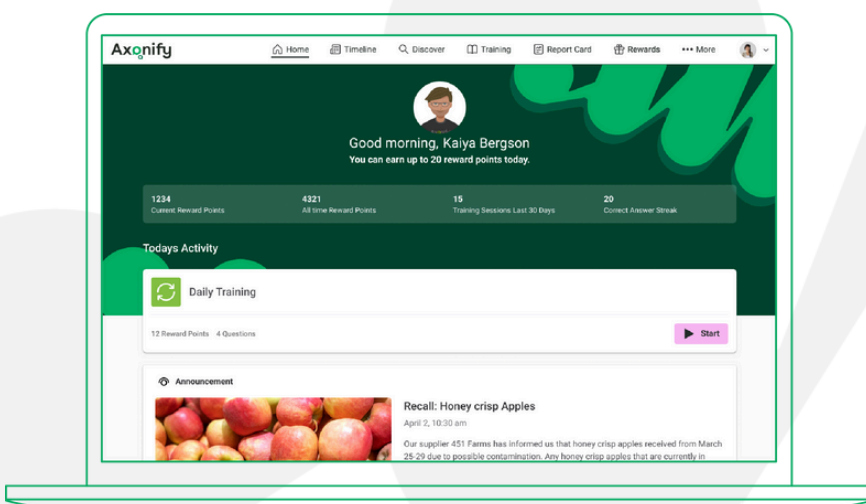

Ad-hoc communications and unsanctioned feedback portals are used to fill in the blanks, so valuable insights from frontline workers gets missed entirely. There's a better way.
